

Biology

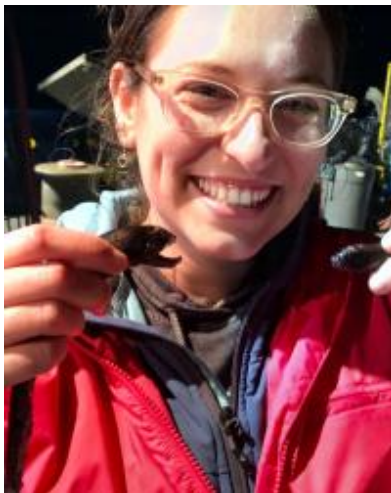

Grad Student Seminar

By: Karly Cohen & Hayden Davis

University of Washington | Graduate Student, Department of Biology

<https://www.biology.washington.edu/research/spotlight/grad>

Friday, October 29, 2021
12:00pm PDT

Lip service: Diverse histological phenotypes aid in complex prey processing behaviors in pacus, the herbivorous cousins of piranhas
By: Karly Cohen (Summers Lab)

Investigating the role of pheromone variation in driving reproductive isolation
By: Hayden Davis (Leaché Lab)

